

2012

The Disney Princesses

Susan Holbrook
University of Windsor

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholar.uwindsor.ca/creativepub>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Holbrook, Susan. (2012). The Disney Princesses. Prism International, 50 (1).
<http://scholar.uwindsor.ca/creativepub/7>

This Poem is brought to you for free and open access by the Department of English at Scholarship at UWindsor. It has been accepted for inclusion in Creative Writing Publications by an authorized administrator of Scholarship at UWindsor. For more information, please contact scholarship@uwindsor.ca.

The Disney Princesses

The Disney Princesses outnumber you.

The Disney Princesses are stuck to pencil cases, socks, toothpaste, bandages. Soon they will appear on dogfood and pink insulation. The next time you go to your mechanic he will offer you the Disney Princesses timing belt.

Dykes worry their daughter will get teased about hemp overalls and soy sandwiches, so they buy her the Disney Princesses backpack, overcompensating.

But even if you wanted to shield your child from the Disney Princesses, you couldn't. Someone will lend her a Disney Princesses eraser, and she'll be hooked, because the Disney Princesses are like crack or PEZ.

The Disney Princesses appear in threes, blooming from fused hips.

The Disney Princesses stick together, at least the white ones do.

The Disney Princesses are Charlie's Angels without the guns.

I'm offering for sale a brand new Pink Disney Princess Flip-Open Slumber Sofa. When it is in the sofa shape, it has Cinderella, Snow White and Sleeping Beauty on the front. When you open it to sleep on, the blanket has Cinderella, Snow White and Belle on it. The entire cover can be unzipped and laundered.

The Disney Princesses don't wear pants.

The Disney Princesses are post-feminist.

I've never seen Jasmine, Mulan and Pocahontas together on snowboots.

The Disney Princesses are not ideological.

The Disney Princesses love you a lot, as long as you are a girl.

The Disney Princesses have an anthem.

It says there's a place where hope and dreams can last for all time.

In other words, the Disney Princesses would rather never be satisfied.

Each Disney Princess has a male love interest, but he never appears on the thermoses or underpants.

The Disney Princesses prefer hanging out on your pillowcase talking about hope and dreams with you.

That way you and the Disney Princesses can love each other, but it won't look suspicious.

The Disney Princesses do not associate with Barbie; they are virtuous maidens from days of yore and Barbie keeps gynaecological appointments on her Blackberry.

The Disney Princesses had oatmeal and quail eggs for breakfast. Barbie had a diet pill and a grape poptart.

The Disney Princesses just titter at Hannah Montana. Soon she will be a human woman, and her wall of socks will come tumbling down.

The Disney Princesses can be unzipped and laundered.

The Disney Princesses have a rubber backing.

The Disney Princesses may warp in the dishwasher.

Do not inflate the Disney Princesses.

The Disney Princesses are a choking hazard.